

QUALITIES OF "BRITISH MUSIC" BROUGHT OUT

Splendid Paper Read by Miss Wetmore

MRS. H. K. HARRIS
Piano and Vocal Selections
Illustrating Contemporary Work

British Music was the subject of study at the meeting of the M. W. S. Music Club which was held yesterday in the common room.

A most interesting and well-planned paper, giving a clear survey of the development of British music from its earliest beginnings to the present day, was read by Miss Wetmore. The club was very fortunate in having present Mrs. H. K. Harris, formerly Miss K. James, the first president of the club, and were delighted with her selections from contemporary British composers.

Miss Wetmore began by telling how "time and again Britain has been called upon to answer the charge of being unmusical. It is not true and there is plenty of evidence to prove it is not true." "All down through the ages the British people have shown a love and a certain native genius for music. Leaving out of account the question of art music, (and we have our classics) England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales have bequeathed to the world a rich legacy of folk-music which alone should redeem them from the charge of being unmusical." After enumerating representative folk-songs of the Welsh, Irish and Scottish people such as "The Harp that once through Tara's walls" sung to the Irish tune "Tramcarra" and "The Minstrel Boy" at "The Mooren", the Scottish "The Campbells are Coming", "Auld Lang Syne", "Scots Wha Hae" and "Annie Laurie" and the Welsh martial tunes such as "Forth to Battle" and "Men of Harlech" and the more idyllic "All Through the Night".

Miss Wetmore went on to say "We must look to the folk-song of England, then, for the origin of the characteristic style of British composition. British art music and its mother, British folk music will live side by side. Both are necessary to our national life, both are beautiful and of both we should be proud."

Elements from the song of the Druids, the Saxon War songs and Roman chants are found in this folk music. The names of John Dunstable who know so well the rudiments of counterpoint; "Christopher Tye who aspired to set the 'Acts of the Apostles' to music; William Byrd and his pupil Thomas Morley who dedicated his book of Madrigals to Queen Elizabeth; Henry Purcell who wrote the first English opera "Dido and Aeneas" and whose "Te Deum" and "Jubilate" which were written on St. Cecilia's Day are so famous; "John Field who invented the nocturne which Chopin was to make famous; the composers stand out as landmarks in the history of British music."

Then come Parry whose depth of feeling and dignity of phrase have

Skiers Start From Look-Out At 3 O'Clock

Tomorrow afternoon the Winter Outing Club has arranged to hold a ski-run over the Mountain. The run is not only intended for the prospective members of the Intercollegiate team, but also for any undergraduates who are interested in skiing and who would like to come out for a run.

Those who intend to go for the run are asked to meet at the Look-Out at three o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The recent snow-fall is expected to leave the mountain in good condition for skiing, and with a good turn-out the run should prove most satisfactory. Captain Thompson is still looking for new men for the team, and will be pleased to see any students who have ever skied before tomorrow.

POSTERS FOR RED AND WHITE NEEDED

Prizes Will Again be Given
For Best Designs

It was recently announced by the Red and White Revue Committee that this year there would again be a poster competition in connection with the show. Two prizes will be awarded to the two best posters, one of which will be used as the cover for the programme, and the other for outdoor advertising.

The posters must be 15 inches by 27 inches, and they must be handed into Miss Heasley at the Union before Feb. 11. Any further information in regard to the required details for the posters can be obtained from Miss Heasley.

Judges have not yet been appointed, but this will be seen to in the near future, and some experts authorities will be asked to fill these positions. Last year a similar poster competition was held, which proved to be a great success. The first prize was won by Miss Mona Crisp, and her poster was used for all the outside advertising for the Revue. Three second prizes were awarded, the first to J. W. Bickford, the second to M. L. Schwartz, and the third to N. M. Stewart. The design submitted by Bickford was the one selected for use on the programme cover. Many other excellent suggestions were submitted, and all the work showed a high brand of talent.

The committee hope that just as much interest will be taken in the competition this year as was last. Other work on the Revue is proceeding rapidly, and it will be a great help to the committee if they can get their posters decided upon as soon as possible.

TEA DANCES TO TAKE PLACE IN NEAR FUTURE

Scarlet Key to Inaugurate
New Entertainment

MAJOR FORBES
Speaker Gives Many Suggestions to the Society on Hospitality

A novelty in social circles of the university was decided upon by the Scarlet Key society last night at their monthly meeting, when it was moved by Jack Little that a tea dance should be given in the Union ballroom in the near future. The tickets are to sell at $1.50, Saturday afternoon, February 13th was tentatively chosen as the date of this novel entertainment, as on this date a visiting athletic team, the Dartmouth swimming brigade, could take part in the dance. It is expected that this projected affair will become one of the most popular among student activities, and re-arouse interest in untold informal dances for the whole university, especially as one of the best-known orchestras around the campus is to supply the music.

President Ney K. Gordon was chairman at last night's meeting of the Scarlet Key, at which only four members over the fifty percent quorum were present. He called on the secretary to read the minutes of the last meeting, and then called on Major Forbes to give a short address, in which he tried to outline the duties which would fall to such a society.

"The scope of such a society as yours is very broad indeed," he said. "In our university, I may say the best university in Canada, at least from the academic standpoint, many official visitors, outsiders, are sure to appear. We are very cosmopolitan in our endeavours, and hence our visiting teams will range from debating teams to swimming, hockey and other athletic aggregations. You are responsible for their entertainment during their stay. Let the hospitality of McGill be a byword everywhere."

He went on to state that in the first place every member on an entertainment committee should wear some kind of insignia which any visitor should easily recognize. The symbol is very characteristic, being a large key, specially designed by Gordie Hughes of architecture. However, when a member is actively in charge of some party, he suggested that he should wear either a distinctive sweater, with an embroidered badge, or a special hat, or some such emblem of his official capacity.

He illustrated his points by references to the hospitality of such universities as Dartmouth and Cornell. "Everyone leaves either of those universities with the pleasing impression that it is a fine college, and that they are exceedingly hospitable," he stated. "Entertainment need certainly not cost very much. Many do not require any expenditure whatever, especially if private cars are used to bring the visitors around. Visitors are satisfied if they are met at the station, if they are looked after properly, even pestered to death, and if they are brought around the university grounds, through the buildings and museums. In case

PHARMACY ENJOYED PLEASANT EVENING

On Wednesday the Pharmacists held their annual sleigh drive and dance. The weather was ideal and two well-filled sleighs left the new Medical Building for a trip round the two mountains. Bugles, horns, trumpets and other similar musical instruments were handed round and the air was soon made hideous by the din. The cheering was conducted by "Pep" Sanger himself and by his able lieutenant, Labelle.

Returning to the New Med at ten-thirty the party was delighted to find a steaming spread of "Hot Dog" with the usual trimmings, set for them in the museum. Those present certainly did Pierre's cooking justice. The evening was capped by a dance in the Assembly Hall. The music was provided by the famous "Strollers" orchestra. Favours were distributed to the girls while smokes, provided by the courtesy of the MacDonald Co., were handed around.

The committee who arranged and carried through the affair consisted of the following:— L. Sherwin, J. Goldapple, M. Shachtler, W. Li-bovitch and E. Reed.

Very little advertising is misleading now, except that the man at the furnace is usually smiling.

MACCABAEANS TO MEET ON SUNDAY

First Meeting of 1926 on January 24

SYMPOSIUM
"Jewish Polity in Poland"
Will be Discussed by
Reich and Levy

The Maccabean Circle will hold its first meeting for the present year on Sunday, January 24 at 3 o'clock in the McGill Union. It was announced last night by the executive of the organization.

The programme which has been arranged for the meeting will take the form of a symposium on "Jewish Polity in Poland" in which two members of the Graduate School will discuss the manifold aspects of the question at hand. Nathan Reich B.A. now pursuing his studies here for a Master's degree in economics will be the first speaker. He will be followed by Gordon W. Levy B.A. also in the Graduate School in the Department of Economics. As usual the addresses will be followed by a discussion.

At this meeting, it was intimated by members of the executive yesterday several important announcements are to be made. It is expected that definite details will be made known concerning the postponed annual dance of the Maccabean Circle. It is also expected that details concerning a new study group to be conducted under the joint auspices of the Students' Christian Association and the Maccabean Circle will be given out at this meeting.

The executive has, it was further stated, an extensive programme planned for the remaining meetings of the session. Information in this regard is to be given out in the near future.

OTHER FACULTIES AT SCIENCE BALL

A Few Tickets to be Placed on Sale To-day for Non-
Science Men

The plans have been completed at last for the Plumbers' Ball and all is in readiness save for a few minor details. The decorations have yet to be put up, of course, but the plan has been completed and the necessary purchases made. The programme designs have been judged and the winning one is in the hands of the printers. It was with great difficulty that any design was picked as a number were submitted all which were snappy, original and could easily be used.

The favors have been purchased also. These are of a novel design and will be a very welcome surprise when they are distributed but the committee are keeping the idea in close secrecy.

The allotted number of tickets have been sold already but the committee has decided that, owing to the number of outsiders that wish to attend the Plumbers' Ball about fifteen tickets will be put on sale this morning for students not belonging to Science. These may be had at the janitor's office for the sum of $3.50 tax included.

The following is the programme:

Triennial Conference of Na-

Education
IN APRIL
Duchess of Atholl and Dr.
Glover to be the Chief
Speakers

The Duchess of Atholl and Dr. T. R. Glover will be the chief speakers at the forth coming Convention of the National Council of Education to be held this spring in Montreal, it was announced yesterday. Mr. E. W. Beatty, Chancellor of the University will be the chairman of the conference while Sir. Arthur Currie, and Monseigneur A. J. Plette Rector of the University of Montreal are acting as vice-chairmen for this Third Triennial Conference of the Council whose proceedings have now attained a national significance.

The conference is one of a series developing the two-fold plan of the Council by which distinguished men and women—both Canadians and visitors from England and other countries—are engaged to speak on education (broadly interpreted) throughout Canada and (b) to serve as an intelligence bureau for the distribution of information between province and province, and for the reception and diffusion of ideas from outside the Dominion.

The Duchess of Atholl is the Parliamentary Under-Secretary to the Board of Education and is the second woman in English history to hold government office. Margaret Bonfield being the first. Dr. Glover is a well-known classical scholar at the present time University Lecturer in Ancient History at the University of Cambridge. At one time he lectured in Queen's University, Kingston and is an honorary LL.D. of that University and of McMaster University, Toronto.

Besides these two, several other prominent English speakers are being secured as well as four well-known Frenchmen, Monseigneur Baudrillard, Archbishop of Paris, M. Honorat, late minister of Education in France, M. Jean Bruhves, College of France; and M. Charley, Rector of University of Strasbourg have been invited by Dr. Roy, High Commissioner for Canada in France, and have indicated their intention to be present to address their French-Canadian brethren.

In connection with the conference it is intended to discuss questions of common interest and in particular to hold a meeting of representatives of various local committees of the National Council so that experiences of the past few years, especially in regard to the Lectureship scheme can be compared. It is hoped that a definitely co-ordinated and uniform policy for this particular aspect of the Council's activities will be adopted.

This Lectureship Scheme was inaugurated with the visits of Sir Michael Sadler and Sir Henry Newbolt in the spring of 1923 when these two speakers altogether addressed

SCIENCE DEFEATS MEDS IN BASEBALL

The recent January thaw had apparently brought out the budding baseball enthusiasts. The season, however, is still young, judging from the play last night. In the game played in the Montreal High School, between Med '29 and Science '28 the latter won 16 to 6.

The play was occasionally fast and furious and the players seemed to be deriving a great amount of enjoyment out of the contest.

This indoor baseball league promises to furnish some really good sport and will be run along "sudden death" lines.

ALLIANCE FRANCAISE

The sixth meeting of the Alliance Francaise will take place in the Ritz Carlton Hotel on Monday next at 8.15 p.m. The speaker for the occasion will be Mr. Benjamin Valloin, a writer of note, who will speak on "The Writer's Responsibility." Those who are acquainted with the meetings of the Alliance recognise the value of the work that they are doing in giving the public the opportunity of hearing addresses in the best of French.

Fancy Skating Practice Will Be Held Today

Although it had been arranged to hold the first fancy skating practice on the Hollow Rink at five o'clock yesterday afternoon, the practice had to be postponed for various reasons. However, the first class will be held at three o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and the committee hope that all those interested in this sport will be able to turn out at this time.

Dick Bolton, McGill champion and manager of the club, left last night for Lake Placid where he is to skate tomorrow afternoon in the junior championships. Before leaving he announced that the services of a professional had been obtained for the club and that he would be there to instruct students every Thursday afternoon at

PROGRESS MADE IN CHESS TOURNAMENT

Moves in Oklahoma Match
Announced

Although several players have not been able to play their first round matches as yet, owing to the recent examinations, play in the Annual Chess Tournament is proceeding at a rapid rate. Some very close and exciting games have been played, and the players who have participated, on the whole have shown marked ability. League games are to be resumed next week when the C. Team meets Itherville on Monday night, and again when the B. team plays against the same club on Wednesday. Both teams have shown up well during the year, and are anxious to better their positions in their respective leagues by chalking up victories at the expense of the Itherville club.

In regard to the two games which are being played against Oklahoma University, Max Garmaise, president of the McGill club, reported that considerable progress is being made. The first game, in which Oklahoma is taking the white, and McGill the black seems to be about even so far, both sides apparently holding their own.

The McGill team are very optimistic over their prospects in the second game in which McGill have the white and Oklahoma the black. McGill seems to have a distinct advantage up to date, and the men are looking with interest for the next reply from the United States University. The moves that have been made in the two games up to date are as follows:—

REDPATH MUSEUM WAS VISITED YESTERDAY BY "DAILY" NEWS GATHERER

Standing in solemn stateliness at the upper end of the Campus, slightly in front and to the right of the Arts Building, is the Redpath Museum. It is a most impressive building from without, but it is even more impressive from within. This is a fact unknown to a great many students of McGill, and indeed, was a fact unknown to me until yesterday afternoon.

Before then I knew little of anything of the Redpath Museum, except that it was most dangerous to pass there in winter time because of an unpleasant habit it has of shedding large volumes of snow and ice on unsuspecting passers-by. So, having nothing particular to do yesterday afternoon, I decided to pay a visit to this imposing structure, right within my very gates.

I had little difficulty in finding a friend who had never been inside the building to accompany me. In fact the first person I asked had never been there. We mounted the steps shortly after four o'clock, and as we were opening the door were nearly knocked down by an avalanche of children who came pouring out. After them came a tired and haggard-looking teacher, who we learned afterwards was taking his class through the building in order to increase their knowledge of history.

As both my friend and I have some experience at Canadian rugby, we

FORESTRY
Higher Pass Standard for Queen's University

The following few articles are condensed clippings from local newspapers intended to give some news of what is happening at our sister universities and in other parts of the world.

Higher Standard at Queen's.

Officials at Queen's University announced yesterday that it had been decided to increase the pass standing requirements in the faculties of arts and science. The new regulations, which come in force next fall, call for a standard of at least 50 per cent. on all subjects.

New School of Forestry.

A new School of Forestry was inaugurated at the University of Toronto two days ago, when members of the Canadian Society of Engineers dedicated the new building. At the meeting that was held after the dedication various subjects of interest were discussed, including the utilization of hard-woods in Canada; the possibilities of silvicultural practice in the forest, and the extent to which present legislation provided for the work.

Play Caused Riot.

A serious riot took place following the production of John Galsworthy's play, "Loyalties," at the Rumanian National Theatre at Grosswardein, Transylvania. Nationalist students dislike the attitude of certain British aristocrats in the play towards Jews, and they showed their anger when they attacked both the audience and the actors and forced the abandonment of the performance and the withdrawal of the play.

Course in Therapy

The senate and the board of governors of the University of Toronto have decided to establish a course in occupational therapy for the training of aides in this subject. At the present time there is no such training in Canada for such students, and the demand for such a school is very great. In the United States there are three schools for the training of aides.

Helen Wills in France.

Tennis enthusiasts are interested to hear of the trip that Miss Helen Wills is making in France at the present time. So far Miss Wills has met with little opposition except from a young English player, Miss Peggy Saunders. The real test will come when she encounters Miss Suzanne Lenglen, and European experts are of the opinion that the French girl is the stronger of the two.

OLD COACHMEN ARE AMONG THE SUFFERERS FROM MODERN ADVANCES

As civilisation advances, and as the new gradually takes the place of the old, there are always those who suffer from the change. During the last decade or so one of the most noticeable changes which has come into the world is the substitution of the automobile for the horse. This in itself is probably a good thing, but there are many who used to make their living out of horses, who now find it very difficult to earn a living.

Just near McGill we have a most striking example of this in the McGill cab-stand on Sherbrooke St. Every day in passing along that street a long line of cabs and horses can be observed waiting, very often in vain, for something to do. Alongside the cabs, or in very cold weather in the tiny little cab house, can be seen the old drivers, most of them hardy and experienced veterans, passing their time in conversation or as best they can.

Many a strange and interesting tale of the old days in Montreal can these old fellows tell; and once engaged in conversation with one of them, it is very difficult to get away. It is really quite an experience to pretend that you are a sightseer, on your first visit to Montreal, and to go for a drive in one of these cabs. Of course you must be sure to tell the "cabby" that you want to know all about everything you pass, as only then will you have the privilege of hearing some of the weird and amusing tales that he will tell you about the buildings, streets, monuments, etc.

But they are mostly well-meaning old men—these "cabbies"—and one must be prepared to take their greatly exaggerated accounts with a grain of salt. They are a courteous and harmless type of citizen, who unfortunately appear to be coming more and more scarce.

At the present time practically the only work they have to do is to take visitors to Montreal on trips around the Mountain, where automobiles are—and it is hoped always will be—excluded. In winter, of course, there are those who come to enjoy the Montreal Winter Sports, who feel that they have not done so until they have taken a ride in one of these sleighs. There are also still a few isolated instances of old-fashioned people who refuse to ride in motors, and use cabs or sleighs whenever they wish to travel any distance. All these people help to keep the cabmen alive.

But still it is very difficult for them to make a living, and they are gradually dying out. In passing by the McGill stand it is indeed touching to watch these old fellows as one of the big Sherbrooke Street buses swoops up, collects its load of people, and passes on, leaving the old cabmen alone, waiting, waiting.

McGILL TO PLAY U. OF T. IN FAST GAME TO-MORROW

At ten o'clock to-night, the McGill senior hockey team will entrain for Toronto, where they meet Varsity in a crucial game to-morrow afternoon to decide the leadership of the inter-collegiate pack. The men will hold a light workout this afternoon at the Forum to ensure the best of condition for the coming encounter.

Despite the fact that Varsity has one of the best ice aggregations in amateur hockey, the atmosphere about the Forum is one of optimism. As a result of careful training by Coach Shaughnessy, McGill will oppose Varsity with a style of play that the Blue and White have perhaps never encountered before. The combination of the men is perfected to a degree that has not been excelled by McGill teams in recent years, and the chances are that Varsity will receive a surprise when they cross sticks with the Red and White.

The personnel of the squad is still undecided. The man to play the pivot position, in the absence of Mickles who is definitely out, is still a matter of conjecture, although it is almost positive that the choice will be between Dion and Lynch, with the odds slightly favouring the former. Murphy will perform in the nets, with either Heney or McCaig as substitute. McMahon and McGerrigle will pair on the defence, and judging from the form shown at recent practices, they should keep the Varsity forwards well in hand. St. Germain is still suffering from a nasty cut on his ankle, received in the Queen's game, but with the aid of a special bandage, he is likely to start at left wing. Captain Abbott is in fine form for the test, and his passing with St. Germain is bound to prove a revelation to the students from the Queen City.

Reports from Varsity have it that the entire team is in perfect condition and anxious to get into the battle. Captain Hudson will lead out a team of stars to-morrow. Sullivan in goals, Porter and Wright on the defence, Hudson, Plaxton and Kirkpatrick on the forward line, and Trotter, Richards and Devins as substitutes constitute enough class for any professional team. The Toronto institution seems to have gathered all the best hockey talent in the vicinity of eastern Ontario.

The intermediates and juniors will practice on the Forum ice from 5.30 to 6 in preparation for their opening games to-morrow.

Queen's and U. of Montreal clash at the Arena to-morrow evening in a game that has great consequences for both teams. U. of Montreal will jump into a tie with McGill and Varsity by a win, and Queen's must win to keep in the running for Intercollegiate honours. The Frenchmen are practicing hard for the encounter and are confident of pulling out a victory. A feature of the game will be the duel at centre between Page, the diminutive Montreal centre with his perfect poke-check and smart stickhandling, and Lindsay, the brilliant Queen's centre, playing spectacular rushing game. The latter will meet a worthy rival in Dery, the French speed skater, whose style is very similar to that of Lindsay.

five o'clock and every Saturday from three o'clock until four.

At the present time McGill is in need of several more fancy skaters to represent the university in the coming championships. Besides Bolton there are only Campbell-Brown and Johnson who have shown any great ability at this sport, and so there is plenty of room for new material. Any who are at all interested and who wish to obtain further particulars are asked to get in touch with Bolton as soon as possible.

Women students are also particularly invited to turn out to the fancy skating classes. Miss Cartwright will be glad to see any who are thinking of taking up this sport. If enough undergraduates show an interest in it, it is intended to form a McGill Fancy Skating Club.

dressed over a hundred Canadian audiences. Sir Michael and Sir Henry were present at the Second Conference of the Council in Toronto—1922 when 5,000 were in attendance at some of the assemblies. Lord Robert Cecil and Sir Robert and Lady Baden Powell were also present.

Since then twelve speakers have visited Canada under the Council's auspices, among whom were the following:—Mr. Hon. H. A. Fisher; Mrs. H. A. Fisher; Mrs. Philip Snowden; Mr. John Buchan; Mr. J. I. Paton, late Head Master of Manchester Grammar School; Miss Lillian Falthull, late Headmistress of Cheltenham College; Mr. J. St. Loe Strachey, Editor of the Spectator and Mr. Allen S. Walker, Extension Lecturer of London University. It will be remembered that several of these spoke before the McGill Canadian Club.

The Council has commenced the publication of a series of books on educational subjects. Two are already published,—"Smiths of a Better Quality", by Colonel G. N. Smith and "The School Theatre", by Roy Mitchell. Others works are in preparation, including "A Canadian Song Book", by Ernest MacMillan Mus. Doc.

"Is your daughter well educated in musical matters?" a friend asked Mrs. Nettley. "Oh, rather," she replied. "You've only got to mention the name of any record and she can tell immediately what's on the other side."

While the skiers are taking part in the cross-country run, the jumpers are to take part in a competition at the Montreal Ski Club. Rutherford, McLaughlin, Martin, Vincent and Tiffin intend to compete and are expected to ably uphold the honour of the University.

The snow-shoers have also been getting busy during the week, and five or six men have been turning out to practice regularly. Still more men are needed for the team, and any interested are asked to get in touch with Thompson or Costigan immediately.

of any college activity, a pass is usually granted the visitors to all athletic events, dances and so on. Major Forbes promised to grant the society the same amount which the athletic board had usually expended on any visiting athletic group. He very kindly offered to donate a cup to the Scarlet Key, on which the name of each year's president should be inscribed. The offer was very gratefully accepted by the society. The athletic board as usual offers to place at the disposal of visitors the field-house as sleeping quarters.

Methods of raising funds were thereupon discussed. It was then decided to hold the tea dance. A great deal of discussion took place over the price. $1.50 was finally decided upon.

As a picture of the society is to be placed in the annual, it was decided that the executive only should be included in this photograph. Quite a discussion was raised as to

TWO FAST GAMES OF CLASS HOCKEY

Science and Medicine Returned Victors—Scores 2-1
and 4-0

Two class games were played yesterday between Dentistry III and Science III, and Medicine IV and Architecture III. The first game was played at five o'clock and the second at six. There was a good turnout at each game and they were well played.

Science led Dentistry

Science III defeated Dentistry III last night by a score of 2-1. The game was fast considering the condition of the ice.

Wise, who played centre turned in a good game, scoring both of Science's goals. Burbank scored for Dentistry. Both goalies were busy handling pucks and towards the end of the game Wyo worked hard to save his team from a greater defeat.

The teams lined up as follows:

DENTISTRY III SCIENCE III

Wyo.....Goal Findlay

Beaton.....Stewart

Munroe.....Moore

Thompson.....MacLaren

Burbank.....Moffat

Berwick.....Wise

.....Darling

.....Med. downed Architects

The second game was won by Medicine the score being 4-0. Shortly after the face off, Adams scored on a pass from MacEvoy and the rest of the points were scored by Quackenbush, Moffat, and Adams respectively. It was a good game and the play throughout was fast and clean.

The lineup was as follows:

ARCHITECTURE MEDICINE IV

Maxwell.....Goal Croll

Gardner.....Adams

Mills.....Moffat

Sise.....Quackenbush

Copeman.....Brown

Stewart.....Mullan

Ross.....MacEvoy

what was to be done in the case of a member of the society who dropped out during the year. It was finally agreed upon that in the event of a member dropping out, that man among the nominees who got the next highest number of votes should take his place, but if there was no other nominee, then the society's members for that faculty should nominate a man for the position and the whole Scarlet Key society should vote on this man. This amendment to the constitution is subject before being adopted, to approval by the Students' Council.

"SCIENTETALKY," or
Reams of Rambles with a Remington.
(From "Douglas in Cumberland") not by Lewis Carroll.

"Twas lignite, and the anticlines
Did chert and esker in the breeze.
All collid were the dolomites
And the strata manganose.

"Beware the Sciencetalk, my child.
I've told you that before—
And you will find extremely wild
The CuSO₄."

She took her Remington in hand
Long time the gabble word she sought;
So rested she by the granite tree,
And stood awhile in thought.

And as in igneous thought she stood
The Sciencetalk with eyes of flame,
Came Tertiary through the wood.

One, two! One, two! and through and through,
Her Remington went snicker-snack!
She left it dead, and with its head,
She went assaying back.

"And hast thou slain the Sciencetalk?
Come to my arms, Triassic girl!
Oh magmas day! Callooh, Calloy!"
He pryte in a whirl.

"Twas lignite, and the anticlines
Did chert and esker in the breeze,
All collid were the dolomites.
And the strata manganose.

ENTHUSIASM TO BE SEEN AT JAZZ TEA

Gross' Orchestra Much Appreciated by Big Crowd of Students

McGill's tea scrappers were treated to a most successful Jazz Tea in the Union Cafeteria yesterday afternoon when Freddy Gross and his Orchestra did their stuff with their usual rare form.

The Cafeteria was crowded until well after six o'clock by music-loving students who applauded Gross' interpretation of such well-known sonnets as "She was Just a Sailor's Sweetheart" "Who?" and "Has she Got Naughty Eyes" again and again. Various methods, some of them almost shocking in their abandon of showing appreciation were used. One student was noticed, through the haze of smoke (which perhaps obscured the witness' vision) throwing butter pads at his companions who retaliated by prodding him with forks his shrieks blending in well with the thunderous applause. Another lad, evidently a music lover of the highest order, the witness states was so entranced by the pulsating strains, that he ate one of his own gloves which was lying on the table afterwards asking why Pierre served up such stale cake!

Though one is inclined to pity the lad for losing his glove and appreciates the reason for it, this calumny against the excellent cook is quite unfair. The food was as delicious as usual and much appreciated.

In fact the witness says, the Tea, was a success from everyone's point of view. The orchestra were happy because their efforts were so much appreciated. Pierre and his staff were delighted to see their tea, cake toast and ice-cream so much in demand and the orchestra being so much appreciated; while both the musicians and food lovers were happy because they got good music and good food.

In fact, in fact, well in fact a good time was had by all.

sometimes been styled "Milton C"; Sullivan and his librettist Gilbert, who established a precedent with their comic opera and showed the British public that British music could be written that would please them. Edward Elgar has been described as the most strongly individual composer England has ever produced. In melody harmony and orchestration he is both original and powerful. He probably reached his highest point as a dramatic choral and orchestral composer in the "Oratorio" "The Dream of Gerontius." His symphonies are the greatest written by an Englishman and will probably rank with the great masterpieces of the world.

"Nor should we forget Cyril Scott, the most revolutionary of modern composers who has developed an interesting style of blended and blurred harmonies. "Valse Caprice" by this composer was played by Miss Bramson and Miss McCreary sang his "Lullaby".

Eugene Goossens' futuristic work shows him to be a composer of verve and ingenuity. His "Hurdy Gurdy" "March of the Wooden Soldiers" and "The Music Box" as rendered by Mrs. Harris proved most interesting. Miss Wetmore concluded, "All the great masters Chopin, Beethoven, Schubert, Liszt, Grieg, Dvorak and many others used folk-song themes, or themes founded on such, and the folk music was their constant inspiration. Some day the genius may arise who will draw up on his rich source of natural tunes using them as themes for longer compositions and so translate the soul of Britain into terms of great music."

"We must not fail to mention the work of Mr. B. Trihorne whom we are so fortunate to have on the staff at McGill. Mr. Louis Graveure is a great admirer of Mr. Trihorne and often sings his songs at recitals." Mrs. Hurd, the president urged all members of the club to be present at Mr. Graveure's recital on Feb. 1st, in Windsor Hall. It was with feelings of deep gratitude and delight that announcement was made, the probable presentation of Lord Strathcona's grand piano to the M. W. S. Music Club.

After the rendering of several other selections by Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Robinson, and Miss McCreary, the meeting adjourned.

Tea was served at the close of the afternoon.
